

The true Canadian Oregon Pine is back!

The rediscovery of a tried and tested timber species.

The North American Oregon Pine, also called Douglas Fir, has always been one of the most sought-after woods in the USA and Canada. Also here in Europe, the use of Oregon Pine has been a tradition for decades and now, this timber species is finally back in our range.

Our company founder Adolf Münchinger already saw the great potential of this timber species in the 1980s and was one of the first to import Oregon Pine directly to Germany.

Today's important questions on the topics of sustainability, ecology and procurement reliability are bringing this wood back into the focus of our considerations.

From July/August, the Oregon Pine will be available from stock in all common dimensions.

We are pleased to offer you a first-class alternative to larch wood:

- 100 % PEFC certified
- Good stability
- Durability class 3
- Homogeneous colour and structure
- Wide range of dimensions for glued and solid products

(Martin Seierlein, Managing Director of Münchinger Holz GmbH, in Canada)